A Short Guide to the Cathedral

The hours of service on Sunday are 11 a.m. and 6 p.m., and visitors are welcomed at all services. The Cathedral is open on week-days, free of charge, from 10 a.m to 8 p.m. in summer and until dusk in winter.

HISTORY

ORIGIN.—The first Christian settlement on the site of the present building was founded, according to tradition, by Machar, a disciple of St. Columba, about 580 A.D. The traditional story of St. Machar's mission is given on the Crombie Window, next the War Memorial.

PRESENT STRUCTURE.—In 1136, King David I. translated the bishopric from Mortlach to Aberdeen, and the Norman Church which by this time stood on the site became the Cathedral of the diocese. It was not until the time of Bishop Alexander Kininmunde about 1357 that plans for a great Cathedral were prepared, and the work begun. The two most easterly pillars, of sandstone in contrast to the granite of which the rest of the building is constructed, are said to date from this time.

Bishop Henry de Lichtoun, 1423-1440, completed the two western towers, still standing, and laid the foundations for the Nave and great Central Tower. Bishop Elphinstone completed the Central Tower about 1512. He also made preparations for building a new Choir, but it was probably never completed.
